

INCLUSIVE CHILD CARE

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and Section 504 of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act prohibit discrimination by child care and school-age child care providers against children with special needs.

Many child care providers, school-age child care providers, and families are unaware of the provisions of these laws or how to effectively include children with special needs.

Just think...
If every child care provider in New Jersey served 1 to 2 children with disabilities, ALL of the classified infants, toddlers, and preschoolers with disabilities in New Jersey could participate.

MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the New Jersey Inclusive Child Care Project is to:

- Encourage and support childcare providers (family child care and center-based programs) to more effectively identify development delays and other special needs and offer inclusive child care;
- Educate parents, families, providers, and other key stakeholders of the services available for children with special needs including identification, evaluation, development of service plans, and provisions of inclusive services;
- Promote collaboration among the childcare provider, community and special needs service providers and systems to improve the delivery of services to children with special needs.

"This workshop has shown me that inclusion can be, and is, a very good thing."

"I will use the information that I learned in the workshop not only in the classroom, but also in my daily life."
